THEN and NOW!

THEN: On December 17, 1903, 75 years ago, the first powered flight by the Wright Brothers occurred at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. From that takeoff--the 12-second flight was about the length of a modern-day jet--air transportation has become a vital part of our nation's life. It has contributed to the country's growth, to its defense and to a better quality of life for all its citizens.

NOW: Each day in 1978, some 700,000 passengers will use the nation's airlines for business or pleasure travel. They will account for 80 percent of all the miles traveled on intercity public transportation and 93 percent of travel abroad. According to the Air Transport Association of America, the U.S. scheduled airlines in 1977 carried 240 million passengers, moved 6.4 billion tons of freight and mail, including nine out of 10 first-class letters between cities, and used less fuel than in 1973 while carrying 38 million more passengers.

MRS. TIMOTHY WAYNE PIERCE
the former Miss Patsy Ann Hughes

Marriage Is Announced

The marriage of Miss Patsy Ann Hughes to Timothy Wayne Pierce took place Saturday evening, April 29, at 7:00 in Liberty Baptist Church, Appomattox, Virginia.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sidney William Hughes and the late Mr. Hughes. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Lee Pierce, all of Appomattox.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. H. Doyle Chauncey, pastor of the church.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Jerry Small, of Appomattox. Mr. Robbie Hiner, of Lynchburg, soloist for the wedding, presented the following songs, "We Have This Moment", "Each For the Other", and "Gentle Shepherd".

The bride, escorted by her brother, Dale Hughes, of Appomattox, and given in marriage by her mother wore a white empire waisted gown of sheer organza. Chantilly lace jeweled with translucent beads and pearls outlined the bodice and high neckline. Its scalloped edges formed a graceful peak at center front. The long tapered sheer sleeves ended in a "bride's peak" of chantilly lace.The A-line skirt is edged in a deep bias ruffle that flows out of a row of chantilly lace. The flounce circles the chapel length train.

The veil was a Juliet cap, covered with chantilly lace flowers and decorated with pearls, and completely edged with a single strand of pearls, and appliqued with chantilly flowers and sprinkled with pearls.

The bride carried as her bouquet a white prayer Bible, consisting of white and yellow rosebuds which were accented with lilies of the valley in a cloud of baby's breath.

Miss Doris Hughes, of Appomattox, was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a slipper length mint green dress of bridal satin and floral wreath sheer over skirt. She carried a wicker basket of yellow daisies and a cluster of baby's breath. Also, for her sister's wedding, she wore a hairpiece of baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kay Johnson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Janet Booth, both of Appomattox; Mrs. Sarah Calkins of Fredericksburg, and Mrs. Patty Sue Hiner of Lynchburg. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Liz Pierce, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Ursula Grishaw, niece of the bride, both of Appomattox. They all wore yellow slipper length dresses matching that of the honor attendant, and carried matching baskets, and wore matching hair pieces.

Miss Sharon Grishaw, of Appomattox, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a slipper length dress of mint green matching that of the honor attendant. She carried a basket of daisy petals.

Ringbearer was Master Chad Pierce, brother of the bridegroom, of Appomattox.

Mr. Foster Pierce, of Appomattox, was his son's best man. Ushers were Mr. Aubrey Johnson, uncle of the bridegroom, Mr. Steve Almond, Mr. L. M. Thomas, both cousins of the bridegroom, and Mr. Leon Goin, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, all of Appomattox.

Junior ushers were Mr. Mark Pierce, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Paul Johnson, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Appomattox.

For her daughter wedding, Mrs. Hughes selected a floor length gown of mint green chiffon with a matching sash hanging from the fitted waist. A capelet of accordian pleats accented the neckline. Accordian pleats fell from the waist and formed fluted edges at the bottom. She wore a comb of yellow silk roses and lilly of the valley in her hair.

Mrs. Pierce, mother of the groom, wore a floor length gown of coral crepe with an over bodice and skirt of crepe georgette. The full circle skirt was gathered at the waist line with a pleated waistband. A capelet of crepe georgette hung from a pleated neck band. Seed pearls and beige lace trimmed the capelet with seed pearls scattered over the capelet. She wore a comb of peach silk roses and lilly of the valley in her hair.

Mrs. Herbert Garrett and Mrs. Robert Garrett were mistresses of ceremonies.

Attending the guest register were Miss Dale Layne and Miss Gail Layne.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Hughes entertained with a reception in the church fellowship hall. The reception was hosted by Mrs. Bettie Magann. USDA SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS). Of this, 350 million acres were cropped and produced 2/3's of all the feed grain, wheat, soybeans and cotton in the U.S. Between 1967 and 1975, 8 million acres of prime farmland went to urban uses. We are currently losing 3,000 acres of prime farmland per day to urban and other uses. As prime farmland is taken out of agriculture, less productive grassland or woodland is often converted to cropland. Land in lower classes not only produces lower yields, but is more costly to manage and to control erosion. Ultimately, these higher costs will be passed on to you, the consumer.

Some suggest that we should continue to let the market mechanism operate. When the price of agricultural products becomes high enough to yield a return and higher than it earns for non-agricultural purposes, prime land would stay in agriculture.

Others argue that lawmakers and government agencies frequently make decisions that affect prime farmland favorably or unfavorably. And, by the time agricultural returns are higher than non-agricultural uses, we would be headed for disaster.

SCS is gathering facts on prime farmland and potential farmland. They are currently assisting the Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District prepare a prime and unique farmlands study of Campbell County and Lynchburg. This information will be presented to the local governments for their use in making land-use decisions.
